Crafts hub gets off the ground

GUESTS were in "shed heaven" as they gathered to mark the launch of an exciting creative hub in Wood Green.

Two brightly-painted, two-storey timber sheds, a blue house round a central courtyard and a red double decker bus refitted as a cafe now occupy what was previously a disused council staff car park in Station Road.

The temporary structures provide premises and studios for entrepreneurs and craftspeople with a square in the middle for entertainment, food markets and stalls.

The scheme is an interim project which will remain for five years while the area awaits further regeneration and development. It was paid for partly with £580,000 of Greater London Authority funding.

Haringey Council's cabinet member for economic development, social inclusion and sustainability Joe Goldberg said: "Blue House Yard is a lively destination where the talents of local people and their businesses can be enjoyed. We have big plans for Wood Green and Blue House Yard is another step towards delivering the ambitious changes residents have asked for."

Development deal is given the green light

HARINGEY Council's pioneering and controversial approach to delivering billions of pounds worth of regeneration to the borough in a public private partnership was approved by the cabinet on Monday night.

Protestors objecting to what they see as the sell-off of public assets demonstrated as the decision to establish the Haringey Development Vehicle, a private company half-owned by the council and half by chosen partner, Australian-based LendLease, was given the thumbs-up.

Council estates earmarked for regeneration will be transferred to the HDV on a 20-year lease during which 6,000 new homes and a new town centre in Wood Green will be built.

Alan Strickland, cabinet member for regeneration and housing, said: "This new development partnership will enable us to deliver the new homes, jobs and facilities that local people have made it clear they want to see."

Roland gives home's fete a helping hand

TV and radio celebrity Roland Rivron's cheeky playfulness put the fun into fundraising at a retirement home's summer fete.

He was guest of honour as The Paddock, in Meadow Drive, Muswell Hill, held an open day to which the public were invited and he had residents, staff and visitors smiling with his amusing quips and antics.

The presenter, actor, writer, musician and Muswell Hill resident helped make the fete at the home run by national charity MHA a resounding success.

The former winner of Let's Dance for Sports Relief said: "I really enjoyed the whole event. You have a great bunch of people at The Paddock.

"Please don't hesitate to get in touch if there's anything I can do for you," he added.

Attractions and entertainment during the day included raffles, stalls, refreshments, sing-songs and games and raised a total of £234.

Also attending in an official capacity on behalf of Haringey's mayor was Northumberland Park ward councillor Kaushika Amin.

All smiles: Simona Machavova, councillor Kaushika Amin and Roland Rivron

The Paddock manager Simona Machavova said: "It was a great success and brought residents and members of the community together. Residents had a wonderful time dancing, singing and playing games."

MAN ADMITS BRUTAL ATTACK ON GIRLFRIEND

A VIOLENT brute, who tortured his girlfriend by pouring a scalding hot kettle of boiling water over her, is facing a lengthy jail sentence.

The woman also suffered spinal and facial fractures during the frenzied and prolonged beating inflicted by Fiston Onyumbé at a flat in Tottenham.

Onyumbé admitted a charge of grievous bodily harm with intent at the Old Bailey last week and the 32-year-old also pleaded guilty to assault after headbutting a police officer during his arrest.

Police were called to a disturbance at the flat, in Pymmes Close, in January and Onyumbé appeared to be hiding a blood-covered naked woman under a duvet in the bedroom. The woman was able to silently mouth words to the officers and they promptly arrested Onyumbé.

Footage filmed by officers on body-worn cameras following the arrest recorded the woman's statement in which she described how she had been punched in the face repeatedly, strangled and had boiling water poured over her as Onyumbé tried to interrogate her.

Earlier the same day the woman had been attacked by Onyumbé in the street after they had been to a club in Dalston, east London.

The violence continued at the flat in Tottenham, which belonged to a third party.

The woman described how she had tried to escape and had jumped out of a first-floor window – but Onyumbé caught her, dragged her back into the flats and up the stairs, banging her head against the banisters. She suffered serious burns and broken bones.

Following his guilty pleas, Crown Prosecution Service reviewing lawyer Thomas Short said: "This was an extremely disturbing act of domestic violence carried out as part of a sustained assault.

"Fiston Onyumbé's victim suffered extreme pain from the boiling water, but, despite her pleas, he continued his attack, which would no doubt have been even more serious had it not been interrupted by the police officers.

"Her account of what happened was captured almost immediately by video cameras worn by the police and she was able to describe the attack later.

"Measures were put in place by the CPS to help her give evidence and it was when she attended to give evidence that Onyumbé entered his guilty plea, meaning that she did not have to relive her ordeal in court," he added.

Onyumbé is scheduled to be sentenced at the Old Bailey on Wednesday, July 26.

Fox facelift plans unveiled

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THIS is the first picture of what a revamped Enfield pub could look like if Dutch brewers Heineken get their way.

Star Pubs and Bars, part of Heineken, wants to redevelop The Fox, in the heart of Palmers Green, and yesterday (Wednesday) held a public consultation in the historic boozer where people could see the elaborate plans and give feedback.

Much to locals' relief, the drawings remain sympathetic to the original building, which is a distinctive landmark dating back to the 1800s.

As well as updating the dilapidated pub the developers want to convert the sprawling car park into flats with a "high quality retail or restaurant unit" and provide a new function room to allow the Electric Mouse Comedy Club, dance classes and Talkies Community Cinema to continue.

The Comedy Club, Talkies and the Vintage Blues Music Association regularly attract crowds of more than 100.

David Williamson, founder of the Talkies Community Cinema, said he had yet to see the detailed plans.

John Gilbert, head of estates at Star Pubs and Bars, said: "We are excited to come forward with plans that protect and enhance the existing heritage of The Fox, while securing its long-term future by providing a community-focused pub with great food and improved function room facilities."

"Last year we announced our intention to significantly invest in The Fox, to refurbish the pub building and improve the pub's offer."

"Over the past nine months, we have been in discussion with a wide range of residents and groups to better understand the local aspirations for the pub."

The original pub that featured in Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban stands on the corner of Green Lanes and Fox Lane and was a two-storey building dating back to the 1800s. It was rebuilt on the same spot in 1904 with the addition of a further floor.

Mr Gilbert added: "We are passionate supporters of the great British pub and believe that vibrant pubs are places where people of all ages and back-

Glimpse of the future: An artist's impression shows the flats which will replace the car park to the rear of the building grounds can come together. The Fox's status as an Asset of Community Value demonstrates its importance to the residents of Palmers Green.

"As part of the proposals, a new function room will be provided, along with improved facilities to ensure that The Fox remains at heart of the community."

"We will continue to work closely with local groups, residents and Enfield Council up until the submission of the application."

Following the public consultation, there will be a feedback period, during which the development team will evaluate all comments received before plans are finalised and a planning proposal submitted to the council.

The pub became the first in Enfield to be named an Asset of Community Value in 2015 after an application by the Southgate Civic District Trust, which means it has added protection from development.

'Unprovoked attack' leaves man with fractured eye socket

A MAN was the victim of a "brutal and unprovoked attack" when he was struck with a blunt instrument from behind while walking home through Southgate.

The force of the attack was so strong that it caused the 55-year-old man to fall over

Detectives in Enfield are appealing for information following the incident at 6.30pm on Wednesday, June 21, in Waterfall Road.

The shocked victim made his way home and following advice from a friend sought medical assistance. He went to a north London hospital, where his injuries were confirmed.

Detectives are appealing for anyone who witnessed the assault or anyone with information to come forward.

Detective Constable, William Gilmour, from Enfield CID, said: "This was a brutal and unprovoked attack on a man who was simply walking home."

"There was a lot of traffic in the area at that time with people on their way home from work."

We need to find the person responsible who clearly will not hesitate to commit violence."

Anyone with information is being asked to call police on 020 8345 4458 or 101, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 or via Twitter on @MetCC.

Gleeful: Holly McKeown, headteacher David Penkert and Sofia Papadopolous, with Woodpecker Hall pupils

Glee club winners make a right song and dance of it

YOUNGSTERS celebrated success after being crowned the borough's top performers at a singing and dancing competition in the West End.

Pupils from Woodpecker Hall Primary Academy, in Nightingale Road, battled it out against 20 schools for Edmonton Glee at the Piccadilly Theatre.

The competition was organised by the Edmonton Schools Partnership, which works together to raise aspirations and provide opportunities for children in the area.

The partnership commissioned Pineapple Performing Arts to deliver weekly Glee Clubs, based on the music and singing from the American hit TV series Glee.

Youngsters were also presented with the Pitch Perfect Award for outstanding vocal performances on the night and two lucky pupils won scholarships at the prestigious performing arts school Pineapple Dance Studios, in Covent Garden.

More than 400 parents, teachers and pupils attended a special school assembly to congratulate the youngsters, who were presented with a gold trophy by headteacher David Penkert.

Pupils from the school's Glee Club performed a selection of their winning songs including Best Day Of My Life, by American Authors.

"I am extraordinarily proud of the children," said Mr Penkert.

"They have brought tremendous credit to the school and to themselves with their talent and the sheer hard work they put into rehearsals over many weeks."

Nadide hits £10,000 jackpot

On the ball: Spot The Ball competition winner Nadide Mahmut

PARENTS know all about pester power – and one Edmonton mum who could no longer stand the relentless nagging from one of her children found herself £10,000 richer this week.

Nadide Mahmut was badgered by her football-mad 10-year-old son Kaya to enter a modern version of the old Spot The Ball competitions which used to appear in newspapers.

"He'd been watching the F2 Freestylers soccer duo on YouTube. They perform football tricks and had been talking about the online game," explained Nadide.

"After he heard them he just wouldn't stop going on about it and pestering me to play the game. Eventually, he wore me down and what a good job he did."

The 38-year-old mum-of-two, an avid Tottenham Hotspur fan, like her son, had to judge where the football should be in a photograph of a soccer match by placing a dot representing the centre of the ball.

She won that week's Spottocash jackpot prize after a panel of former referees and footballers, led by ex-Arsenal and England goalkeeper David Seaman judged she had placed her dot closest to the exact position of where they agreed the ball should be.

Nadide said she was almost speechless when she found out she had won £10,000.

"I've never won anything before," she said. "I was in complete shock."

She is planning to spend the cash on a family holiday and to renovating the garden.

Prince meets pupils during school visit

IT'S not every day you get to meet a real prince in the flesh – but that's just what happened to pupils at an Edmonton primary school.

Prince Andrew met and chatted with youngsters on a visit to Meridian Angel School, in Albany Road, last Tuesday.

The Duke of York was there to see the Church of England school's new modern building which it moved into in January to accommodate more pupils and provide state-of-the-art facilities.

The prince toured the building, met teachers and spoke with pupils in Years 2 and 5. He also addressed a school assembly and unveiled a plaque commemorating his visit.

He was accompanied by Ann Cable, Deputy Lieutenant of Enfield, mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton, Archdeacon of Hampstead the Venerable John Hawkins and other representatives of the Diocese of London, the Department for Education, the Education Funding Agency and a number of headteachers.

The school opened in 2014 and was originally located in temporary accommodation at St John the Evangelist Church, in Dysons Road, Edmonton. It still maintains close links with the parish church. It is located on the doorstep of one of the largest regeneration projects in the UK, the £3.5billion Meridian Water development which is providing 10,000 new homes and work space on a former waterfront industrial site.

"We were really pleased to be able to welcome Prince Andrew to our school," said headteacher Cheryl Milner.

"The pupils were very excited to meet and speak with him and I hope he enjoyed the tour of our new classrooms and facilities which show how far our school has come in such a short space of time."

The Archdeacon of Hampstead said that the school's Christian ethos had been built "to transform the lives of all children and this community".

"It is here open and welcoming to those families who will become part of the new community being created in Meridian Water," he added.

A LIVE music extravaganza was the perfect accompaniment to an afternoon picnic at Forty Hall last weekend.

Up to 3,000 visitors enjoyed the annual Music on the Lawn in the picturesque grounds of the Jacobean mansion, in Forty Hill, Enfield, on Sunday.

Proceeds will be used to restore the pond island next to Forty Hall House and more than £400 from a raffle will be donated to the wildlife sanctuary at Trent Park, in Cockfosters.

Music artists topping the bill included Palmers Green jazz singer Maria Evangelou, skiffle band The London Bonnevilles, members of Southgate Opera, Odyssey Blue and Bazooka Joe's Band.

Pupils from the Groove Band at Enfield Grammar School, in Enfield Town, entertained with rock and pop music and The Bavetta and Selborne Quartet, from Enfield Music Service, performed on stage.

Other attractions a bouncy castle, face painting, craft stalls and bee, butterfly and ladybird workshops as well as included a Pimm's drink tent, clay oven pizza and pancakes.

The event was organised in partnership with Forty Hall House and Enfield Council's parks department.

"It was an outstanding event," said Jo-Ann Brown, event organiser and Friends of Forty Hall Park committee member.

"Everyone enjoyed themselves. The children loved it and we raise money for different projects every year."

Police take video cameras on board

Kitted out: Pc Nathan Cooke and Pc Gemma Carlton

POLICE officers in Enfield will now be going out on patrol with Body Worn Video (BWV) cameras.

BWV is being issued to about 560 frontline officers and community support officers in the borough. Additional cameras will also be available for specialist departments.

The camera is attached to an officer's uniform on the chest to capture video and audio evidence, in order to support vulnerable victims, help secure convictions in court and increase transparency around police activity.

It's part of London's investment in the new technology with 22,000 cameras being deployed by all 32 boroughs by the end of the summer.

Sergeant Doug Skinner said: "Body Worn Video will be an invaluable tool for frontline officers and will make Enfield safer.

"The footage it captures at a scene will provide a compelling addition to the evidence we are able to present at court. Communities in Enfield should have increased confidence in our enhanced ability to support victims of crime and directly record criminal behaviour and its consequences."

When the camera is recording, it is highly visible with a flashing red circle in the centre and a frequent beeping noise when it's activated.

Members of the public are told as soon as it is practical that they are being recorded.

All footage recorded on BWV is subject to legal safeguards and guidance.

A DOCTOR is hoping to kickstart a huge fundraising campaign at the hospital where he works by running up and down one of the highest points in the British Isles – barefoot.

Dr Yanni Papastavrou, 47, is gearing up for the Snowdon Race on July 15, a 10-mile run up and down the highest summit in England and Wales.

The research scientist works in the department of radiotherapy and medical physics at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

He is part of a team that uses the latest image-guided techniques to treat cancer patients by precisely targeting tumours while sparing nearby healthy organs.

But now the technology is dated and they are bidding to raise £1.5million for a new radiotherapy CT scanner.

Dr Papastavrou, who lives in Leyton, east London, believes it is the first time anyone has attempted the Snowdon Race, one of Europe's toughest endurance challenges, without footwear.

He has had more than 13 years of injury-free long-distance barefoot running, but even for him the Snowdon race will present a "remarkable challenge".

He said: "It will be hard. My mother lives in Snowdonia and I tried running up and down some local mountains recently, so when I heard about the 42nd International Snowdon Race, one of the toughest and most popular races in the fell running year, it seemed a perfect opportunity to do something out of the ordinary – a daredevil challenge to raise money and awareness for the fund we are launching for our cancer patients."

Running barefoot is not simply a novelty gimmick to raise money. Dr Papastavrou is a passionate believer in the virtues of barefoot running.

He added: "I started running barefoot after almost giving up running in my 30s due to injury issues – problems with my knees and Achilles tendon and lower back pain – that prevented me from running distances longer than half-marathons.

"After slowly transitioning into running barefoot in 2004, I've managed to complete several marathons, most recently the Snowdonia in 2015."

Archers Financial Services Ltd

Established for over
25 years

Time to Consider a Stock and Shares ISA!

With monies invested in cash receiving such paltry amounts of interest Stocks and Shares ISA's should be considered when it comes to investing.

With the investment limits having recently increased to £20,000 from 6th April 2017 couples can now put away up to £40,000 per tax year (£20,000 per adult) into ISA's.

ISA's (sometimes called NISA's) are tax-efficient savings and investment accounts. You pay no Income Tax on the interest or dividend's you receive from an ISA and any profits from investments are free of Capital Gains Tax.

Archers have been recommending Stocks and Shares ISA's (and their predecessor the PEP) to clients for over twenty five years and can point to many clients who have benefited from investing in such products.

Good stock picking is very important and Noel Sainsbury, Director at Archers Financial Services Ltd has been a big fan of the mid cap sector in recent years. Three such funds that Noel has recommended to many clients over the years are the 'Old Mutual Mid Cap', 'Neptune Mid Cap' and 'AXA Framlington Mid Cap' funds.

The returns these funds have recorded have been both outstanding and consistent, see below:

| Mid Caps        | 1 Year | 5 Year  |
|-----------------|--------|---------|
| Old Mutual      | 34.56% | 180.23% |
| Neptune         | 20.45% | 131.77% |
| AXA Framlington | 19.17% | 134.10% |

(Source Analytics 15th May 2017)

Whilst tracker funds may have had a reasonable year last year, the Virgin tracker fund has only returned 52.62% over the last five years, an annual return of approximately 10% compared to 23% from the Neptune Mid Cap fund and over 30% from the Old Mutual Mid Cap fund.

Archers are always keeping a look out for new funds as well as keeping tabs on old favourites such as Invesco Perpetual's High Income fund.

Two funds that Archers have also added to new portfolios in recent years are the Man GLG Continental European Growth Professional Fund and CFP SDI UK Biotechnology Institutional Fund.

For those who don't feel comfortable placing all their ISA allowance in Equity funds it is also possible to create lower risks portfolios which invest in Bond funds.

Unlike some firms, Archers are transparent in their charging structure. An investment of £20,000 would typically cost 3%, i.e. £600 with an annual ongoing charge of 0.5%. And for the 0.5% per annum charge (£75 on a £15,000 investment)

Archers encourage all clients to meet annually to discuss individual portfolios and new funds that should be considered.

Prison sentence for Islamophobic assault on teen

Thug slapped young woman in face with bacon

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

SHOCKING mobile phone footage of a race-hate thug slapping a Muslim teenage girl in the face with an open packet of bacon in an Islamophobic attack in Enfield has been released by police.

The teenage victim was walking along Hertford Road with her mother at about 4.40pm on Thursday, June 8, when she was approached by Alex Chivers, who shouted "Isil scum" and "You deserve this" before hitting her in the face with an open packet of bacon.

The 36-year-old, of Bryanstone Road, Waltham Cross, was jailed for 26 weeks for assault and for 12 weeks for a public order offence, the sentences to run concurrently, when he appeared at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court last Thursday.

Friends of Chivers were present at the time of the attack and one them filmed it on his mobile phone.

The video can be seen on the Advertiser's website at www.enfield-today.co.uk

The victim, who was distressed but not injured reported the unprovoked racially motivated attack to police and Chivers was arrested six days later.

He was charged with one count of racially or religiously aggravated common assault and one count of causing racially or religiously aggravated alarm or distress.

He pleaded guilty and was bailed to return to court for sentencing last week.

Chivers was also ordered to pay a £115 victim surcharge and complete a 12-month supervision order when he is released on licence.

Detective Constable James Payne, from Enfield Community Safety Unit, said: "This was a truly shocking incident.

"The victim was out with her mother and getting on with her day when Chivers abused her and then set upon her with something he knew would both upset and offend her.

"We know other people were present during this attack, including an associate of Chivers, who filmed the incident.

"Inquiries are ongoing to trace these people and if you have any information that may assist in identifying them please contact the community safety unit at Enfield via 101.

"The community safety unit here in Enfield encourages all victims of hate crime to contact police so that the culprits can be identified and brought to justice."

Three arrested over fatal stabbing

Stabbed to death: Joao Ricardo Gomes

THREE teenagers have been arrested in connection with the killing of an 18-year-old in Enfield Highway.

The suspects, aged 14, 15 and 16, were arrested last Thursday on suspicion of murder and grievous bodily harm following the fatal stabbing of Joao Ricardo Gomes.

Joao was found suffering from stab injuries following a fight involving a number of people at about 10.30pm on Saturday, May 13. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

A post-mortem examination gave the cause of death as a stab wound to the chest.

All three suspects have been bailed to appear in court in later this month.

A 14-year-old boy who was arrested on Tuesday, May 23, on suspicion of murder has since been released pending further inquiries.

Two other men – aged 19 and 17 – were also found with stab injuries that night in nearby Palmers Lane. They have since been discharged from hospital.

Detectives from the Homicide and Major Crime Command investigating are appealing for information.

Anyone who witnessed the attack or has any information that could help police with their investigation should contact the incident room on 020 8217 6582 or via Twitter @MetCC.

To give information anonymously, call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 or visit crimestoppers-uk.org

Columnist

Joanne Laban

Conservative group leader, Enfield Council

SINCE my last column, we celebrated Volunteers Week, so I wanted to use this opportunity to highlight the work of volunteers in Enfield.

Our community is indebted to people who give up their time for free to offer opportunities, support and compassion to others.

I cannot possibly mention everyone in this column because we are so fortunate in Enfield to have lots of volunteer groups.

I recently attended an event to raise funds for the Nightingale Cancer Support Centre, a charity that gives kindness and support to people at the most difficult and challenging times of their lives.

The events the charity holds to raise money could not be done without the work of volunteers alongside those who help in the cancer support centre itself.

The Friends of the Parks Groups I am involved with give up their time to keep Enfield's parks the jewels in our borough's crown.

They are the people who will be litter picking and cleaning parks free of charge. The groups apply for outside funding and it is used to invest in our parks, making them even more attractive.

Armed Forces Day last month was a chance to thank cadets, veterans and current armed services. The cadets give young people opportunities to do the Duke of Edinburgh Award scheme, leadership training and teamwork along with other skills. However, the cadet branches could not exist without adult volunteers.

The above are just a few examples, so I want to finish by thanking everyone who volunteers for the many organisations that make a difference to our community. The kindness and dedication you show are an inspiration to us all.

Trio made a vital contribution in wake of attacks

IN recent months our country has witnessed terror attacks in Manchester and London.

In London, terrorists used knives and vehicles to kill and maim people; in Manchester, a suicide bomber killed and injured people attending a pop concert.

These terror tactics were first deployed in Israel and the parallels don't stop there.

The people carrying out these attacks are being taught to hate and they are then unleashing their hatred on innocent people across the world. To defeat these terrible acts of violence nations have to be united against terror. Countries must work together on all fronts, not just on the security and military solutions.

On that note I wanted to let our readers hear about one contribution that hasn't been given national media coverage, but merits recognition.

Three Israelis, Rabbi Dov Benyancov-Kurtzman, Professor Yori Gidron and Dr Moshe Farchi, who have experience of working with victims of high trauma incidents in Israel, set up trauma centres in the aftermath of the Manchester and London terror attacks. They provided direct support to the public and training for 90 mental health professionals.

If you want to send a message of thanks to the people who helped our country via our elected politicians, then follow this link – www.israelbritain.org.uk/news

People are rightly angry at this inertia

AS the true scale of the Grenfell disaster unfolds, the quest for answers grows stronger.

Yet, amid all the discussion about the type of cladding used, there are other uncomfortable truths which have a huge bearing on what happened and our ability to adequately respond to it.

Grenfell residents talk about being ignored before the disaster and neglected in its aftermath.

This should come as no surprise given the low political priority afforded to social housing investment in recent years.

Since 1997 there have been 15 housing ministers, each failing to get a grip on what most voters now see as a high priority – the provision of affordable homes to rent.

Instead, successive governments since 1979 have transferred billions of pounds of public subsidy from social housing to home ownership, refusing to allow local authorities to use the sales proceeds from council housing to build replacements.

This is why Conservative councillors in Kensington and Chelsea are now struggling to find suitable accommodation for those physically and emotionally displaced.

People are rightly angry at their inertia when called on to bring empty properties back into use.

Once again the emergency services have been rightly praised for their heroism in the danger they faced.

The irony is that many firefighters, police officers and NHS staff cannot afford to live in the areas they serve.

Praise needs to be backed up with a firm commitment to deliver both better pay and affordable housing to those we rely on when faced with adversity.

How disappointed they must be by the continued public sector pay cap. The public response to Grenfell demonstrates that society is bigger than those currently governing it.

Politicians at all levels now have a duty to act so that the likes of Grenfell never happen again.

They are obliged to consult those previously ignored and to put an end to the notion that health and safety amounts to too much red tape.

If they do this, the Grenfell victims will not have died in vain.

This is a Brexit U-turn, Bambos

IN his election literature, our new MP Bambos Charalambous pledged to block "a Burrows hard Brexit".

It hasn't taken him long to break his first pledge.

He failed to support Chuka Umunna's Brexit amendment vote calling for Britain to remain in the single market and in an article in the New Statesman proclaims that Brexit is a reality.

Another politician elected on broken promises.

I hope that the electorate don't forget this U-turn.

A very modern sort of shrine

I HAVE just seen the report on TV that the world's first ATM was opened in Enfield 50 years ago on Tuesday, June 27 ("You're So Money", Advertiser, June 28).

Considering there are now three million ATMs worldwide, it seems appropriate that the first one should now become a shrine. People from all over the world would want to visit.

The borough council could incorporate some sort of mini-museum cataloguing the rise of the phenomenon, including some technical stuff.

Celebrate this golden moment

LAST Tuesday was a historic day for Enfield as it was 50 years to the day since the world's first cashpoint was unveiled by the late, great star of stage and screen Reg Varney.

And who would have thought that half a century later it would still be going strong?

The celebration, staged by Barclays, was great.

The gold cashpoint is there, so, people of Enfield, take a minute next time you are in Enfield Town to see the world's first ATM and plaque.

Knife bin yields haul of weapons including axe

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THIS is the haul of knives and weaponry recovered from the Edmonton knife bin in the latest cull.

The bin stands in the front office in Edmonton police station, in Fore Street, in a bid to persuade youngsters carrying blades to get rid of them – anonymously if necessarily. As well as kitchen knives, folding knives and scabbards, there is also an axe.

A police spokesman said: “Twelve more knives were recovered last week after a search of our dedicated knife drop bin in Edmonton police station.

“Last week, the Met’s week-long Sceptre operation urged people to give up their knives across the capital to help save lives. The knife bin is still situated in the station office, open 24 hours a day, seven days a week to deposit knives and sharp articles”.

The frightening image was released on the same day that mayor of London Sadiq Khan launched a new Knife Crime Strategy with Metropolitan Police Commissioner Cressida Dick.

It states that every school in London will be offered a metal-detecting wand as part of new plans to reduce knife crime.

New community sentences will be introduced for those convicted of knife possession, while an extra £625,000 has been pledged for knife crime projects.

Mr Khan said the strategy “brings together” organisations and communities “to solve this problem”.

Fearsome haul: The weapons surrendered to the knife bin – including an axe

The extra money pledged will increase the total spending by the Mayor’s Office for Policing and Crime on knife and gang projects to more than £7million.

Enfield North MP Joan Ryan “warmly welcomed” the mayor’s new plan, saying that on top of that Enfield police had been promised 21 extra officers for the borough by the end of the year.

She said: “We all know the horrific consequences of knife crime here in Enfield and we are all working to stop young people carrying knives.

“Having discussed these issues directly with Sadiq Khan in Enfield and at City Hall, his new plan is a really important step forward in helping to address the scourge of knife crime on our streets.

“Working with the mayor of London, our community has been able to secure a commitment to get 21 more local ward-based officers in place by the end of this year to help fight this problem.

“And I’ll be working alongside Sadiq, local residents and community groups, as well as the police, to help put this strategy into action. Instead of dragging its feet on this issue, the government needs to buck its ideas up, support the mayor’s plan and reverse the cuts to our youth services and police to help keep our neighbourhoods safe.”

AN inspirational woman from Palmers Green has triumphed over disability by learning braille.

Rajeswari Gopalakrishnan, 51, was born deaf with Usher syndrome, a hereditary disease, which can cause further hearing and loss of vision.

She had tunnel vision resulting in blindspots until the age of 35. Since then she has found it increasingly difficult to interact through British Sign Language.

Rajeswari learnt hands-on signing, placing her hands over someone else's as they sign to establish which words they are spelling out.

Weekly braille sessions were provided with help from a £5,000 Santander Discovery Grant, which was awarded to Enfield Disability Action's Deaf Project in partnership with Enfield Vision.

Rajeswari started learning braille for an hour each week from January to May with tutor Diane De Jersey, chairwoman of Enfield Vision, who is also blind.

Rajeswari required help from her daughter Chandrika, 20, and brother-in-law Steve Holding, 47, who acted as interpreters to communicate instructions from Diane through hands-on signing.

Deaf Project manager Mary White, and Simone Rickard, both from Enfield Disability Action, also helped to interpret through hands-on signing.

"It was a challenge," explained 70-year-old Diane, from Ponders

End, "but Rajeswari was able to pick up things very quickly and we worked together."

Diane first tested whether Rajeswari had enough sensitivity in her fingertips to feel the raised dots on the braille.

After this was established, Diane started by teaching Rajeswari to read the alphabet from A-J on blocks containing each braille letter.

Diane gave a verbal instruction to Rajeswari's daughter or brother-in-law on the letter she was feeling and this would be communicated to her through hands-on signing. Rajes-wari would then touch a block containing a letter and the process was repeated.

Diane also used a Perkins Braille machine, which is similar to a typewriter, but each key produces a letter in braille on embossed paper.

Rajeswari can now read the full alphabet as well as numbers and is learning to read using braille blocks which can be rearranged to form different words.

Rajeswari was tested on the words and replied by making a noise through her mouth which Diane understood, or by relaying the answer through hands-on signing with her family.

In just five months she has learnt stage 1 in braille, a remarkable achievement, which has given her some independence, so she can label food at home, colour co-ordinate clothes and label the recycling bin. The next step will be for Rajeswari to learn how to use the Perkins Braille, so she can form her own words and sentences, and eventually learn to read books in braille.

"Hopefully, the sky's the limit," added brother-in-law Steve.

What's on and what's coming

Food for thought

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

IS it a bird, or is it a plane? No, it's Sandwich Man.

A "superhero" blessed with the power to make butties might not sound that astonishing.

But in the fantasy musical, staged at the Dugdale Centre in London Road, Enfield, on Thursday and Friday next week, the owner of a hostel for the homeless does as much to help save the planet from a global food crisis as the band of superheroes mankind is pinning its hopes upon – if not more.

As with all musicals, it's all-singing and all-dancing. Nothing remarkable about that you might think, except that this uplifting and often humorous production is devised, written and performed by the Broken Silence adult drama group, whose 30 members, aged from 18 to 75, have a range of mental and physical disabilities from mobility impairments to learning difficulties.

The group is part of Enfield's Face Front Inclusive Theatre, based in Market Square, Edmonton.

When a catastrophic world food shortage threatens to increase poverty, hunger and homelessness, an emergency summit to solve the crisis is called by politicians who turn to the most powerful beings on the planet – superheroes.

Fifteen caped and masked crusaders with names like Calculator Man, Super Ballerina, Wonder Woman (played by a man) Auto Man (a hologram), Sea Creature, Snow Queen and Masked Boy (he can run faster than Flash or Quicksilver) gather at the luxury hotel where the conference is being held.

The opulence and lavishness of the surroundings only serve to emphasise the contrast between the richest and the poorest as across town ex-rough sleeper Bill runs a modest hostel for the hungry and homeless.

"The idea was inspired by one of our members who used to be a rough sleeper himself," explains Angie Wallis, the musical's joint director.

"A single kind act when somebody bought him a sandwich and a cup of tea had a profound effect and when he got his life back on track he began working with a charity collecting unwanted food from supermarkets and elsewhere to feed the homeless.

"There is no big political message behind it other than as individuals we can all consciously do good things to make the world a better place, be it through the simple act of picking up litter, recycling or helping someone in need.

"It is a heart-warming show that is both moving and uplifting and hopefully will empower and inspire the audience to do something themselves," added Angie.

□ Two shows are being staged on July 13 – a matinee performance at 1pm and an evening performance at 7.30pm. The following day there is an evening performance only starting at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £10 (£5 concessions) and are available from Dugdale Arts Centre's box office on 020 8807 6680 or via www.dugdalecentre.co.uk

World wide web

SPIDER-MAN: HOMECOMING (12A, 133 mins)

JON Watts's slick reboot of the Marvel Comics superhero – the third in 15 years – spins an impressive web of rite-of-passage drama, buddy comedy and bombastic spectacle.

There's a goofy, youthful vibe to this incarnation of Peter Parker, played by British actor Tom Holland, who turned 21 last month. He certainly looks more convincing as a socially awkward high school student than his big screen predecessors – Tobey Maguire was 26 when he slipped on the spider suit, Andrew Garfield was 27.

Holland sparks a terrific on-screen double act with Jacob Batalon as Parker's best friend Ned, who discovers his buddy's secret identity by accident.

A cute homage to arguably the greatest coming-of-age comedy of all time – Ferris Bueller's Day Off – is affectionately tossed into an origin story that doesn't feel the need to replay Peter's encounter with a radioactive spider.

Six screenwriters reference events from Captain

America: Civil War and position Tony Stark (Robert Downey Jr) as a surrogate father figure to 15-year-old Parker while the boy grapples with his burgeoning powers and responsibility.

Several months have passed since the destruction of the Avengers headquarters and Peter has been able to conceal his crime-fighting alter ego from Aunt May (Marisa Tomei).

Ned is sworn to secrecy, joining Peter in their school's Academic Decathlon team alongside Peter's crush Liz (Laura Harrier), sardonic loner Michelle (Zendaya) and bullying rich kid Flash Thompson (Tony Revolori).

The pupils have a brush with death at the hands of salvage company owner Adrian Toomes (Michael Keaton), who has been robbed of his livelihood by Stark's offshoot Department of Damage Control (DODC) and has taken flight as a larcenous winged menace called Vulture.

Youthful impetuosity overrides common sense as Peter tries to prove himself to the Avengers by tackling the airborne madman alone.

In a demonstration of tough love, billionaire inventor Stark punishes Peter by reclaiming the lad's high-tech suit laden with neat gizmos.

Spider-Man: Homecoming isn't king of the slingers – Sam Raimi's 2004 sequel Spider-Man 2 retains that web-spun crown – but director Watts's opening salvo isn't far behind.

Action sequences are executed with verve, without swamping the screen in digital trickery, and the most dramatic interludes are underscored with snarky humour.

The script pulls off two impressive sleights of hand, one of which is a bona fide jaw-dropper, and there are a couple of additional scenes secreted in the end credits. One tees up a venomous new adversary for a sequel in summer 2019, the second delivers a comedic flourish that rewards the virtuous.

Families find the best of town and country at Bolingbroke Park

Four-bedroom homes at Bolingbroke Park, L&Q's parkland development in Cockfosters, offer growing families all the space they need without having to leave London.

Arranged in attractive crescents, the red-brick family homes are available from £695,000 and give growing families the chance to take advantage of good-value property prices in Cockfosters, while retaining good links to the rest of the city. The terraced houses are spread over three floors, offering modern but traditional homes. The houses also include large, private gardens with a generous terrace which is sheltered by the mature, native trees, allowing plenty of outdoor space for children.

In addition to the private gardens, Bolingbroke Park is set within 12 acres of green landscape, including onsite ponds. The grounds provide lots of opportunities for outdoor activities, including a woodland 'Trim Trail' – a running and exercise course that winds through the trees close to the water – and an outdoor gym.

Just five minutes' walk from Cockfosters station on the Piccadilly Line, Bolingbroke Park is the perfect choice for busy commuters, who can reach Central London in just 30 minutes. Meanwhile the green landscape – including nearby Trent Park – offers the perfect rural setting with countryside charm for families.

Lucy Chitty, L&Q's Regional Sales Director, commented: "Bolingbroke Park presents a great opportunity for families seeking the best of town and country living.

"The Night Tube on the Piccadilly Line means that commuters can access Central London quickly and directly, while residents also have 24-hour access to the capital's leisure and entertainment districts within half an hour".

Bolingbroke Park's Sales and Marketing Suite is open 7 days a week at Chase Side, Cockfosters EN4 8HT. For more information or to book an appointment visit www.bolingbrokepark.co.uk or call 0333 0033 637.

Honda's Clarity of vision

By Darren Cassey

THIS is Honda's updated hydrogen-powered Clarity model. The Japanese manufacturer is expanding the model's range to include a fully electric, plug-in hybrid and hydrogen variant, making it the first model to offer all three on one platform.

Hydrogen-powered Clarities have been around for a few years, but now there's a new and improved version.

Honda's engineers have managed to reduce the size of the fuel cell stack and electric drive unit – equivalent to the engine and transmission in a conventional car – without losing any performance, meaning it can now fit under the bonnet.

It used to sit beneath the cabin and the result of the new set-up is much more space for passengers.

You can't buy one right now, however. Honda is currently running a single-digit fleet in the UK with more cars across Europe. Limited long-term Honda customers have been given the chance to apply to run one, but the plan is to eventually offer it in all showrooms after development testing ends in 2022.

On the outside, the Clarity has a rather odd appearance. It's a big saloon and the design does nothing to hide this – it looks rather fussy from the front. But there are a number of aerodynamic touches such as the "air curtains" in front of the rear wheels that deserve closer inspection, while the fin-shaped wheel design helps improve airflow and looks intriguing.

Considering the size of car required to fit the fuel cell stack and the two hydrogen tanks as well as the high cost of research and development that's going into the drivetrain, it's no surprise that the Clarity feels like a premium saloon as Honda can charge more for the car. For a brand whose bread and butter is low-cost, mainstream models, the interior is high quality and well put together, while the seats are perfectly comfortable.

Where hydrogen vehicles have traditionally struggled is offering decent cabin space and room for lots of luggage. By moving the fuel cell stack beneath the bonnet and tweaking the placement of the two hydrogen storage tanks, Honda has massively improved the space on offer.

In the cabin, there's a large cubby hole between the front seats as there's no transmission tunnel in the way, while leg room is impressive all around – we had four people in the car at one point and there was plenty of room to spare.

Safety is a big talking point with hydrogen due to the high pressures required to store it, but Honda has gone to great lengths to protect the tanks in the event of a crash.

Because the Clarity is built for hydrogen and electrification from the ground up, the steel sub-frame could be designed in a way that protects the storage tanks in the event of a rear-end crash and dissipates the energy towards the front of the car. It appears to perform well in rigorous crash tests.

Of the three Clarity models that will eventually be on sale, the plug-in hybrid is expected to be the volume seller. The fuel cell version will hope to draw the likes of BMW 5 Series owners to the green side by offering the best range of any zero-emission vehicle – 403 miles under NEDC regulations. We're told that high-end taxi and chauffeur companies have been very interested. The end goal, however, is to make the fuel cell a viable option across the Honda range for a variety of buyer profiles. The powertrain is already smaller than some of its traditional engines, opening opportunities for existing models to have hydrogen-powered variants.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified listings and semi-displays) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search of a credit referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or trading debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

DAVIES WANTS A FAST START

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

BEN DAVIES firmly believes that a good pre-season campaign will help Tottenham Hotspur to start their Premier League bid in positive fashion.

Spurs head off to America on July 19, ahead of matches against Paris St Germain in Orlando on July 23, AS Roma in New Jersey on July 26 and Manchester City in Nashville on July 29.

And left-back Davies believes that facing three games against such strong opposition will only stand the side in good stead as they gear up for their opening league match against Newcastle United next month.

"We've got some good fixtures out there, and it's up to us to keep ourselves fit and get fully ready for them," the Welsh international said. "We don't want to come back and have a slow start to the season – we want to come in raring to go and pick up as many points as we can early doors. A good pre-season will help us to do that."

"We're really determined to win games and I think that the way we go into every single match, we don't have any fear whoever we're against."

"Even if our backs are against the wall, we've turned games around and performed well in those matches, and it's the sign of a good side when you can pick up points when sometimes you don't play so well."

"I think we've done that in a couple of games over the last year and it's important that we're fully focused at all times again next season."

Meanwhile, former Tottenham Hotspur midfielder Scott Parker has returned to Spurs as under-18 coach and a club ambassador after confirming his retirement from playing.

Raring to go: Ben Davies is looking forward to Tottenham Hotspur's pre-season tour of America

Parker, who made 63 appearances for Spurs between 2011 and 2013, called time on his illustrious career last week and is relishing his new role at Tottenham.

"I'm delighted to be back at Tottenham and look forward to immersing myself in the job," he said. "It is a great honour to represent the club both as a coach and an ambassador."

"Obviously it wasn't an easy decision to call time on my playing career, though I'm looking forward to this new chapter and am grateful to Spurs for handing me this opportunity at such an exciting time in the club's history."

John McDermott, head of coaching and player development at the club, said: "Scott will need no introduction in terms of his playing credentials."

"He's been planning a career in coaching for a number of years, and during his time here he was not only completing his coaching qualifications, but dealing with players in real life situations."

"Scott's role within the academy will be to manage the under-18 players and to instil the standards required to be an elite international and Premier League player."

"I know how passionately he feels about the personal qualities needed from players to be a success in our first team, and I know he will develop these qualities in our players on and off the training pitch."

Wilson's stunning spell settles clash

NORTH MIDDLESEX fell victim to an astonishing spell of bowling from Adam Wilson as they fell to a disappointing six-wicket defeat at lowly Brondesbury in the Premier Division of the Kingspan Middlesex County Cricket League on Saturday.

Wilson bowled unchanged throughout the innings as North Middlesex amassed 159, ending with the remarkable figures of 10-67 to become just the third player in the history of the Middlesex League to take all ten wickets in a first-team match.

Adam Price (41) top-scored for the visitors, but their total never looked like being enough and Finn Allen (59) and James Overy (49) helped Brondesbury to ease to 161-4.

Meanwhile, table-topping Highgate had to settle for a winning draw from their local derby at home to struggling Hornsey in Division Two.

Scott Elstone led the way with an unbeaten 80 as Highgate scored 266-5, receiving excellent support from Christopher Arul (42), Shane McNamara (39) and Syed Muazam Ali (33).

Paul Weekes (92) and Joe Emanuel (55 not out) played well for Hornsey in reply, but they soon fell behind the required rate and never looked like reaching their target – with the match rather petering out as they closed on 188-3.

Elsewhere, North London climbed out of the relegation zone after recording an impressive 14-run win at home to high-flying Enfield.

The hosts could only make 171 in the face of some fine bowling from Dan Amedee (4-38) and Lee Robertson (3-55), but Jordan Gregory (4-33) then shone with the ball to help North London dismiss their visitors for just 157.

Prescod seals his spot in World Athletics Championships

REECE PRESCOD upset the odds over the weekend to be crowned British 100metres champion in Birmingham and book his place in next month's World Athletics Championships in London.

The sprinter from Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club was not seen as one of the favourites heading into the British Championships, which doubled up as the national trials for the forthcoming showpiece event in the London Stadium, but he exceeded expectations by progressing through the rounds and then clocking a time of 10.09seconds to triumph in the final.

"I feel great," he said. "To come and get a medal was always the aim. I am so ecstatic now that I managed to produce in the final with a season's best. Now I hope I can get even faster."

"I was confident going into the race but I was also nervous because I knew that everyone was running well. In a championships everyone is nervous especially with these fast guys around."

"I now want to stay healthy, get stronger and make sure everything is good and ready for London."

Club colleague CJ Ujah recorded the fastest time of the day with a wind-assisted 9.98secs in the semi-finals but was forced to withdraw from the final with a minor injury and faces an anxious wait to see if the selectors will give him the discretionary third spot in the event – although he seems certain to make the 4x100m relay squad at the very least.

Fellow Enfield and Haringey sprinter Ojie Edoeburun came fourth in the final (10.21secs). And Bianca Williams can also look forward to competing in the World Championships after coming second in the 200m in 23.05secs. Pre-race favourite Desiree Henry could only come third (23.14secs) and is now relying on the selectors for a spot in London.

Callum Wilkinson came second in the men's 5,000m walk in a personal best time of 18minutes 56.96secs, while Khai Riley-La Borde was runner-up in the men's 110m hurdles (13.71secs).
